WASHINGTON, Jan. 18.

SENATE.

MR. MORGAN, of New York, from the Committee on Commerce, reported a bill to extend the time for the filing of claims under the act for the relief of goods destroyed by fire in New York in 1845; also a bill to authorize the construction of a railroad bridge across the Niagara River at Buffalo.

MR. WILSON, of Mass., offered a resolution instructing the Committee on Finance to inquire into and report the expediency of authorizing the Secretary of the Treasury to issue to the national banks any amount now authorized by law, not exceeding in the aggregate $400,000,000, in proportion to the capital of such banks, and to withdraw and cancel a like amount of United States notes, and that the Committee have power to send for persons and papers. Laid over.

MR. WILSON, of Mass., introduced a bill to amend the act of April 9, 1866, entitled "An act to incorporate the Freedmen's Savings and Trust Co.," so as to authorize the Secretary of the Treasury to designate that institution or any of its branches as depositories of public money, and to direct such moneys to be so deposited; also, to authorize all savings institutions to invest their deposits in Government bonds in the hands of agents for the benefit of the depositors, and to direct such moneys to be so deposited. Referred to the Committee on Finance.

MR. WILSON, of Iowa, kindly moved that the Senate go to the Instructions.

The House struck out the instructions the proposed to establish the bill to the Committee on Judiciary by a vote of 29 to 17.

The House then voted on the bill as originally introduced by Mr. Kelley, and as reported back by the Committee of the Whole, and passed it by the following vote:

That from all laws and parts of laws prescribing the qualifications of voters in the several States or Territories, the word "white" shall be stricken out, and that hereafter the elective franchise and the right to hold office shall not be denied on account of race, color or previous condition of slavery to any citizen of the United States, except Indians not taxed, Asiatics, Africans and their descendants, who have participated voluntarily in the rebellion.

MR. WILSON, of Iowa, moved to lay the bill on the table.

Lost—Yeas 53, nays 117.

MR. WILSON, of Iowa, moved to lay the bill on the table.

Lost—Yeas 53, nays 117.

MR. STEVENS moved to reconsider the vote by which the bill was passed.

MR. TERRELL then spoke as follows:

Mr. Speaker, I am opposed to this bill, because I deem it unjust, unwise and inexpedient. I am opposed to it because it is a violation of the plighted faith of the American people solemnly pledged in the platforms of the two political parties that came to power with the present Administration. Our assertion should not be forgotten by the people. Our platform declared that the object of the war was the restoration of the Union as it was, with all the rights of the States unimpaired. Upon that platform we came into power, and upon that platform we have carried on the war. Now, I think Mr. Johnson has made a great blunder in not convening Congress at once. Had he done so, the people would have been relieved from the present excitement, and the passions of the hour would have passed away. Mr. Lincoln was elected by the Union Republican party, and Mr. Johnson was elected by the Union Republican party. Mr. Lincoln was elected on the platform that the object of the war was the restoration of the Union as it was, with all the rights of the States unimpaired. Mr. Johnson was elected on the platform that the object of the war was the restoration of the Union as it was, with all the rights of the States unimpaired. Mr. Johnson has not made a great blunder in not convening Congress at once. Had he done so, the people would have been relieved from the present excitement, and the passions of the hour would have passed away. Mr. Lincoln was elected by the Union Republican party, and Mr. Johnson was elected by the Union Republican party. Mr. Johnson was elected on the platform that the object of the war was the restoration of the Union as it was, with all the rights of the States unimpaired.

MR. STEVENS—I call the gentleman to order. He is not discussing the question of reconsideration.

THURSDAY Evening, Jan. 17, 1861.

The money market is very easy, and gold without any parade, is obtainable by borrowers, as it was a few days since. Sterling generally is quiet, and the rates for exchange ruling at the same rate of discount, 10 per cent. per annum; but the demand for bills is very limited, and the supply ample. Francs are in moderate request at 5.17½@5.15 per pound per month. The recent orders for specie from the Northern banks compel considerable shipments from the Southern banks, and the amount of coin now on the way to the North is very large. Several vessels are now loading at Charleston for the Northern ports.

The demand for Boston is moderate; sixty days' sight is quoted at ½@¾ premium; ten days' sight, par@¼ premium; and 1-10 prem. selling. Sterling bills continue very scarce, and the supply is entirely inadequate to the demand
